

Kostis Stamatopoulos was born in Athens, in 1965. As a student, he started mountaineering and decided to become a full-time mountain and river guide, organizing recreational outdoor training programs.

In 1996 he started organizing adventure training programs for Greek and multinational corporations, after being trained as a Facilitator in Outward Bound U.K. and as Ropes Courses Instructor in R.C.D (Ropes Course Development) U.K.

He went on working as a business consultant and got his MBA from KINGSTON University.

Today, he is working as a Training & Development Manager for SUMMIT Exploring, designing and delivering training and development workshops for school and university students and business executives.